COVAX on the upswing

ROBERT MONNIE
Staff Reporter

As more area medical facilities continue to receive a slightly increasing supply of Pfizer and Moderna COVAX doses from the S.C. Department of Health and Environmental Control, more Chesterfield and Marlboro county residents are receiving the inoculations. DHEC's per capita distribution plan still results in about 90 percent of the COVAX supply in the state continuing to go to the population centers in the Upstate, Midlands, Grand Strand and Low Country. However, the DHEC board of directors is considering the modification of that distribution plan.

All of the below data are as of Feb. 14 and based on the first dose with the second dose already administered or in the pipeline.

Statewide, according to DHEC, about one million residents have received COVAX allocated from that state agency. Administration, the VA medical centers in Columbia and Charleston have administered doses to about 15,000 military veterans, while the 20th Medical Group at Shaw Air Force Base has inoculated an additional 5,000 veterans.

The military installations in South Carolina have also vaccinated some of their active-duty personnel, but most of them are legal residents of other states and territories.

The grand total of South Carolinians who have received the COVAX is about 1.1 million or about 21 percent of the state population. In Chesterfield County, that figure is estimated to be 6,000 or about 13 percent of the population.

(843) 378-4501 – 300; and Carolina Pines Regional Medical Center (843) 656-0101 – 4,085. DHEC's inventory is based on 5 doses per vial. It has been reported by some facilities, including CPRMC, that they are able to get 6 or 7 doses per vial.

McLeod Health Cheraw also has a limited amount of COVAX. More information about those resources is available by calling (843) 537-7881.

The Chesterfield County School District has developed a plan with CareSouth Cheraw to set up mass vaccination events for all its employees who have opted to receive COVAX.

DHEC has also established the COVAX phone line, which is operating every day from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., with 240 phone operators. People who have questions about vaccines or who need help finding providers and their contact information can call (866) 365-8110.

These area facilities and clinics, all within a 30-minute drive from respective portions of the county, have received these quantities of doses:

CareSouth Bishopville (803) 484-5317 – 400; CareSouth McCall (843) 523-5751 – 1,000; CareSouth Society Hill
